U.N. Advance Of Three Miles In Korea Reported

Limited Offensive Move On East-Central Front Is Reported

By DON NIXON

U.S. EIGHTH ARMY HEAD-QUARTERS, Korea, Aug. 3.-A United Nations limited offensive mounted by a full division rammed ahead two to three miles on Korea's eastcentral front Thursday.

The UN attack encountered little resistance along a seven-mile front southeast of the Communist buildup headquarters of Kumsong. It was supported under sunny skies Allied warplanes, out in full rength for the first time since bad weather curtailed operations several days ago

Abandon Hunt

YUMA, Ariz., Aug. 3.—(INS)—Sheriff Jim Washum today called off the hunt in the Arizona desert wastelands for Klaus Martens and June Marajane Walker, who abandoned their rented airplane in the blazing Tule desert 18 days ago.

The reason was the baffling aspects connected with the disappearance of the Pasadena, Cal., auto salesman and the pretty student nurse from Malverne, L. I., N. Y., who took off from East Los Angeles on Sunday, July 15, for Blythe, Cal.

Washum said that one of the unexplained details of the case was the discovery of airplane wheel marks on a ledge where the tracked footsteps of the missing pair ended abruptly.

Officials said the steel allotment would provide 155,000 housing units during the fourth calendar street entrance to the new bridge sand supply areas in the forward and rear areas."

There was a very busy garage-man and an anxious family for a few minutes Thursday afternoon at a West Side garage, Pa Newc is told. While doing some welding on the family's car, a fire developed in the trunk section of the car which was locked. When someone notified the family who lived nearby all five members descended on the garage while the quick thinking mechanic applied the contents of a nearby fire extinguisher, keep-ing the damage at a low minimum and relieving the anxiety of the family. This morning's weather fore-cast caught a lot of folks shorthanded. Fair weather and rising temperatures were promised, and even though it looked cloudy, lots of folks went unprepared for the rain which started in about nine o'clock and kept on falling. How-ever, it was something which will do no harm.

(By HOLMES ALEXANDER)

LAGES FIELD, Azores, Aug. 3.—Over Group Headquarters here flies the American flag, but the flagpole itself does not stand on Portuguese soil. The flag is fastened by steel hoops to the side of the building, and its lower end stops about three finger-breadths from

This arrangement is only one of a dozen inconspicuous reminders that this dandy little island of Terceira is a province (county) of Portugal and that the American airmen are guests, albeit paying guests, of a sovereign nation.

The ruler of Portugal is Prime Minister Antonio de Oliveira Salazar, and Dr. Salazar's ruling passion is nationalism-Portugal's.

The sovereignty of this poor but proud and solvent little countrya joiner of the Marshall Plan and Atlantic Pact—not only comes first with the Portuguese officials here; it also comes first with the American military guests. It's a primary duty of the Military Transport Service (MATS) to make certain that our presence in the Azores brings no degradation to the natives-moral, economic, military

Chief Ingredient Politeness

Personnel of the 1605th Air Base Group are not hand-picked for service in the Azores, but they are heavily and continuously indoctrinated for behavior toward the natives. It's not what you'd call a distasteful dose of instructions, for the chief ingredient is politeness. A jeep load of GIs will customarily flip a salute as they pass a group of Azoreans who are trudging behind their oxen. In return the GIs will invariably receive a tipping of the hat and probably a dusty grin.

Beyond these casual exchanges there is little fraternizing among the nationalities. They work side by side all over the base, but they separate amicably after duty hours, everybody going his own way. What we have here is the friendship of business partners rather than

Criminal relations, such as petty thievery and alcoholic roughhouse, are rare. Punishment is instantaneous and smashing, I am writing from knowledge of specific cases which need not be cited. But it's a safe generalization to observe that the way of even the minor transgressor leads straight to a Portuguese penal colony in darkest Africa or to an American military dog house, if not worse. Soft punishment criminologists back home might be surprised to know how the foreknowledge of such dire fates will improve the morals of man

Island Bloodless Battlefield

Economically, the island is a bloodless battlefield where the forces of inflation and loose spending money lie conquered. The American-paid wage scale begins a little lower and ends a little higher than the Portuguese daily pay. A civilian laborer, for instance, would come to work for the Portuguese government at 17 escudos (about 59 cents) and would hold that pay rate as long as he remained on the job. The same man would start working for MATS at 15 escudos with automatic promotion to 17 escudos at the end of six months. After that, he has a chance to reach the top rate of 19 escudos per diem, but only by merit promotion.

Since the same system prevails in the skilled jobs, every Portuguese can earn standard-of-living money, but that's all. There is no black market for the Yankee dollar to feed. Almost everything for sale on the island—wine, jewelry, embroidery—is plentiful and cheap. Most of the GIs' money goes home for investment in bank accounts and insurance.

Militarily, we are living entirely by faith and trust in our hosts,

Yesterday I encountered the inevitable Officer of the Day who rides about on American military posts with a 45 at his side and an armed non-com at his elbow. But this O. D. was both empty-handed and alone, indistinguishable except for a faded arm band.

"Portuguese Protect Us"

"The Portuguese protect us," he told me—and that is precisely the truth. Their armed guards hold every approach to the American air station. Their workmen maintain the runways. Their operators in the Control Tower direct the air traffic with American as-And I shall insist that after each game my team bear me aloft on its collective shoulders to the nearest pool hall where I shall play the rival coach for the day's receipts. And don't let anybody ever tell you that I'm not a hot man on the nine ball in the side pockets.

(Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

The modest U. S. force here could be gobbled up or thrown into the sea by an overnight coup—but that's not going to happen. Faith begets faith. Our trust in the Portuguese is exactly matched by their faith in us. Nobody's trying to gyp anybody, and there you get the whole secret of bi-national tranquility.

How long can it last? Pessimistically, an outsider might predict that the American air of superiority will eventually alienate and sour that the American air of superiority will eventually alienate and sour these gentle people, despite the fact of our common interests. But as an on-the-spot observer, I doubt it. How could anybody feel anything but comradeship for folks like these Azoreans? Jealousy seems Rep. Celler (D) N. Y., on baseball's controversial reserve contract clause: "There must be changes. I'm going to insist on it.

The secretary said the matter

The secretary said the matter was thoroughly investigated by a board of military academy officers, and that a formal report recommending the discharge of the cadets was submitted to the army. The announcement disclosed why Pace recently conferred with Judge Learned Hand in New York. Hand was head of a board which reviewed the West Point findings. Pace said the action had been recommended by Gen. J. Lawton Collins, army chief of staff, as well Collins, army chief of staff, as well as the board of review. The board included Lt. Gen. Troy H. Middleton and Maj. Gen. Robert M. Banford, both retired.

ford, both retired.

Middleton is now president of Louisiana State university and Hanford is former commander of cadets at the academy. Hand is judge of the Second U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New York. An accompanying statement from West Point pointed out that "in accordance with the accepted code of honor, a cadet is not permitted to seek or accept improper assistance in any of the tests presented to him in class."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(INS)

The National Labor Relations Board reversed itself today and approved a CIO contract with the Ford Motor Co., although union officers were tardy in signing a non-communist affidavit.

Decreasing the "Don'ts" The unprecendeted action thus removed some 4,700 CIO union contracts from legal jeopardy. The contract between the CIO United Auto Workers and Ford had been held invalid three weeks ago. The decision, considered somerective bargaining elections if the same conditions prevail.

To make this possible, NLRB rejected a previously approved petition by the AFL international Brotherhood of Blacksmiths. Drop. Foregrees and to have been stopped?

But how is this possible? There are so many things that children do that are dangerous or foolish or bothersome. Don't they have to be stopped? to be stopped?

Here's a suggestion that has worked in some families. The first step is in the nature of a study or survey. For a period of time, stop and analyze why you say "don't". Then, see how things Brotherhood of Blacksmiths, Drop Forgers and Helpers for a union election at Ford's Canton, O., parts

Many things will be put away so almost two months after the union that young children aren't tempted to touch them. The valuable vase or lamp, the bowl of candy within reach, the shaving cream on the low shelf can be shifted out of the child's range.

New Policy On Cost-Of-Living Pay Increases

-The wage stabilization board today announced a new policy which may mean cost-of-living pay increases for million of workers.

Gove that nation.

Board Chairman George W. Taylor said the new policy would approve escalator pay increase clauses for workers not now covered by them. It also provides for wage reopening clauses and periodic wage adjustments for workers who do not wish to include an escalator clause in their contract. Taylor explained that the new policy, unanimously adopted by the wage board, is still subject to approval by Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston.

Alfred A. Martin, Lawrence county Department of Highways superintendent, has announced that workmen are engaged in removing the by-pass route signs for route 422 from South Jefferson street south of Grove street, and from Croton avenue extension.

All by-pass traffic will now be routed over the new Grove street bridge, with traffic turning off South Jefferson street at the Central fire department traveling east while traffic coming from the east will travel directly west over the new bridge rather than make use of Croton avenue extension and of Croton avenue extension and thence over the South Jefferson street bridge. The new section of traffic right-of-way, including the approaches and the bridge itself, will be maintained by the state. Other work on the bridge will be completed as soon as materials arrive.

Mr. Martin stated that it will be the city's responsibility to erect signs on the Diamond for east-bound traffic and at Butler avenue and East Washington street, informing truckers that they should use the new route now that the bridge is open. Many trucks kept off the by-pass route previously, due to the sharp turn at the South Jefferson street bridge. Iff all trucks are caused to use the new route it will aid in the better flow of downtown trafife.

Basing Point Bill Passed By Senate

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 .- (INS) -The controversial "basing point" bill, on which supporters and opponents were in complete disagreement as to its ultimate effect; was sent to the House today after final Senate passage.

The measure, designed to permit price discrimination by manufac-turers and distributors "in good faith" to meet competition, and to allow absorption of freight charges by sellers, was passed, 42 to 34. Two opponents, Sen. Benton (D) Conn., and Humphrey (D) Minn., predicted that if it passed the House, President Truman would veto the measure.

Sen. McCarran (D) Nev., its sponsor, said it was designed "only give the seller the right to meet competition.'

Benton argued that the legislation "can potentially revolutionize American economy," and called it "an innocent sounding bill," to 'sabotage' the anti-trust laws.

Several western senators, including Johnson (D) Colo., and Hunt (D) Wyo., contended that freight absorption should be legal ized to protect industries of the

Electrified Nation

Staff Sgt. Gerald Gibson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Gibson, has arrived at his home at Volant, R.D. 1, after 11½ months service with the armed forces in Korea. Leaving Seattle, Wash, at 3 a.m., he arrived in Pittsburgh airport at 7 p.m. that same evening. Enlisting in the Army January 17, 1949, he received his training at Ft. Knox, Ky., and at Camp Hood, Tex. He was sent from the latter to Korea in August, 1950, with the Tank Corps, 24th Division. Gibson saw action in several

Who isn't who owns butcher short straight with Gertrude—Trude—Ederle, 44, who 25-year-ago on August 6 electrified the nation and the world, too, when she swam the English channel, the first woman in history to do so.

Trude says she has taken on weight, but her broad, powerful shoulders still slope to a neat waist, a flat stomach and trim hips. Her short, naturally curly hair is still dark brown, untouched with a single thread of gray. Her brown eyes are lively and sparkling. And she wears her hearing aid so skilfully it is literally invisible.

One of the authentic greats of the furbulent, the frost moderful smile illuminated her fabulous. Twenty-five years ago come Monday, the nation literally went wild when word was flashed from England that the 19-year-old New York girl had swam the channel, the first woman and the sixth person in history to conquer this tricky body of water.

Most Tumultuous Welcome

She came home to the most tumultuous welcome New York had ever poured out upon an individual, and to the first great ticker tape ride up Broadway, "complete with Grover Whalen, complete and all" she recalled "complete with Grover Whalen, carnation and all," she recalled with a chuckle. Nothing turned her head then, and nothing has since. The nation never had a more modest heroine.

And it was a modest woman who said across the luncheon table "I don't want to sound like a poor sport or to take any glory away from anyone ever, but I a poor sport or to take any glory away from anyone ever, but I would like to say that I don't consider my channel record has ever been broken.

"I know Florence Chadwick swam the channel in thirteen hours and twenty-three minutes last summer, as against my fourteen hours and thirty minutes.

"But she made the crossing in twenty-three miles under ideal weather conditions all the way. I swam thirty-five miles to get across during a storm so severe for seven and a half hours that warnings were posted on both the French and English sides of the channel, warning shipping not

Begged Me To Give Up

"Four times during the storm, my father and my trainer begged me to give it up. But I had made me to give it up. But I had made my father promise before we left France that he wouldn't take me out of the water until I collapsed. We had shaken hands on it, and later he told me the only reason he hadn't taken me out forcibly was because of his promise and handshake.

was because of his promise and handshake.

"They wanted me to quit because the storm was so bad they were afraid I'd get lost and drown. The boat accompanying me would be swept ahead of me by the waves and we would lose each other."

Trude stabbed at the chicken asiad and smiled.

"You know, it was an perie feeling out there in the channel to look up and not be able to see the boat and wonder if it would ever find me again," she said. Everyone on the official boat and in the press boat was sick as dogs. Never Sick or Scared

But not Trude. She was neve sick or scared or uncertain. She just plowed right along through the storm.

that day."

The 19-year-old girl held 29 national records as she started the swim that day 25 years ago. And she had been high point scorer in the Olympics in Paris two years before. Some of the records still stand, including her two-mile swim from the Battery to Sandy Hook in seven hours eleven minutes in seven hours, eleven minutes

OOZE WHO?

SOBERNHEIM, GERMANY—Are you suffering from a touch of rheumatism or arthritis? Are you afflicted with some form of blood poisoning? Or are you one of those hearty souls whose number of chins is headed for the higher brackets? Well, there's a health resort in Sobernheim that specializes in the treatment of these ailments and the medicine that is used there is mud. Instead of a hospital bed, the patient reclines in a small foxhole filled with nice, oozy mud. Whether or not these persons are being cured, they sure seem to enjoy their wallowing. sure seem to enjoy their wallowing.

SHOULD THE YANKEES win the American League pennant, and certainly the "Bombers" are one of the teams to beat, you can base their success on (a) pitching (b) a "lift" given the club at various times by one or more players and (c) that Yankee uniform.

Pitching, of course, is the key to all success in baseball as Connie Mack has been saying for years.

In Vic Raschi, Ed Lopat and Allie Reynolds the Yanks have probably the best one-two-three purpol, in all baseball.

Louis, aging ex-champion who ably the best one-two-three punch in all baseball.

That second factor, "lift," just seems to fall the Yankee way.

Jersey Joe Walcott for refusing to defend his newly-acquired crown until next February or I.OOKING at the Yankee lineup, you are amazed at the conglomeration of characters which makes up the Gotham club. There is no resemblance of characters which makes up the Gotham club. There is no resemblance to the Yankees of yore, yet they continue to play like the world champions they are.

The first "lift" was given the club by a raw rookie who came up from Class C—Mickey Mantle, the "rave" of the spring season, who should know better." said Louis in commenting on a Wednesday night announcement that Walcott would not give Ezzard Charles a return match for at least six months. The New Jerseyite scored a stunning upset by dethroning Charles July 18.

The International Boxing Club had planned a Charles-Walcott title bout for the fall and Louis was expected to meet the winner in December.

Louis Meets Bevins

The 37-year-old Brown Bomber said Walcott is "lessening his chances of keeping the title" by waiting so long. Louis pointed out that the prolongation hurts his own chances also.

Walcott was 37 last January 31 which makes him three months old was last of the said was expected and where can you go without pitching?

The Hirst "lift" was given the club by a raw rookie who came up from Class C—Mickey Mantle, the "rave" of the spring season, who beated in 45 runs before being shipped out.

Epen Manager Casey Stengel gives credit to Mantle, saying that if it wasn't for him the Yanks wouldn't be where they are today.

The big guys in the lineup, Joe DiMaggio and Johnny Mize, weren't in the lineup, Joe DiMaggio and Johnny Mize, weren't had you go with the lineup, Joe DiMaggio and Johnny Mize, weren't had you go with the lineup, Joe DiMaggio and Johnny Mize, weren't had you go with the lineup, Joe DiMaggio and Johnny Mize, weren't had you go mantle to bash out hits when they count. When Mantle began to falter, young Gil McDougald, another rookie, eased into the lineup and he began to help. He quickly moved up into the 300 sphere in batting and notched several impirtant home runs to help the cause.

Then Johnny Mize took over and won several games with his bat. As expected, the key to all Yankee success, DiMaggio, came off the bench and if we are to follow the script, when the current "big" guys falter, someone else will take over and give the team that "lift".

THE YANKEES win the big ones, as they have proven in the past. It's hard to beat a team like that although this is by no means a give-up piece on the chances of the Red So out the whimsey in folks. Show the average voter an office to be filled and no candidate filed and he is seized with the idea of writing his neighbor's name in the block.

There's nothing illegal about it. You can vote for whoever you jolly well please. Even where there is a candidate filed you can still write in the name of your neighbor Joe Doax, or General Hauling or Lucretia Borgia.

The only thing is, it creates a nuisance for the official recount board, takes a lot of time and of course it is time for which the taxpayer is paying.

This year's primary election held July 24 seems to have set a new high for whimsical voting. In Neshannock second the office of school director had no filed candidate. Richard Magnuls had hele.

hannock second the office of chool director had no filed can-idate. Richard Marquis had his ame written in on 298 ballots and hirty-one other candidates re-eived from one to six votes.

Enon Valley Boro had 86 write-ins. Ellport had 107, Ellwood City list ward had 45. In one rural precinct there were 86 votes and
